

Snake Plissken Lives!

Sunday, July 31, 2005 9:30 AM

Movies

War of the Worlds
King Kong
Transporter 2
The New World

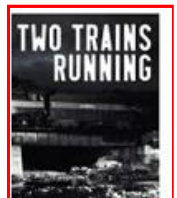

DVD

"Must-See" TV

Lost
The Shield
West Wing
24
Medium

Pages

It was a running joke in Escape from New York that almost everyone Snake Plissken ran into thought he was dead. Escape from New York was released in 1981 and although it was a fan favorite, it wasn't a block buster.

Everyone pretty much thought that was it for Snake... that he was dead.

Then 15 years later, Escape from LA was released. It also developed a cult following, but wasn't a block buster.

Everyone pretty much thought that was it for Snake... that he was dead.

In 2002 CrossGen published the first two issues of John Carpenter's Snake Plissken Chronicles. CrossGen then folded... but Snake wasn't dead. Hurricane Entertainment published the last two issues.

Everyone pretty much thought that was it for Snake... that he was dead.

Alias Comics and Hurricane Entertainment are teaming to bring back John Carpenter's Snake Plissken Chronicles this November when a collection of the original four-issue miniseries will be published.

Movie and comic fans will love this news since the original mini-series sold "strong from start to finish." For most comic art fans, the cover alone will be worth the price of admission since it'll be by Drew Struzan [and as an added treat don't forget that Tone Rodriguez provided the pencils for the series].

Snake Plissken is my favorite John Carpenter character and translates easily to comics. Who knows, maybe if this collection sells well, we'll see more of Snake's adventures.

Anyone here think that Snake Plissken is dead?

[To Post a Comment]

Charlotte Over Atlanta

Friday, July 29, 2005 9:31 PM

Last Saturday I started hyping Shelton Drum's Heroes Con for 2006. I did this partly because Wizard had announced that their Atlanta Convention would be held the same weekend, but mainly because I love Heroes Con.

This isn't news to anyone who's been reading the ZONE for any length of time. What may be news though, is the fact that Wizard has announced that they will not have the Atlanta Show in 2006, and when they do schedule it, it won't be the same weekend as Heroes.

And if you think that's great news [and it is -- I want to be able to support both shows, but if I have to choose, there is no choice for I will be at Heroes!] then wait till you see the guests who've already signed up for Heroes 2006!

Man, I can't wait!

If you're still not sold on the idea of attending, then check out these pictures and con report from 2005 [some provided by yours truly].

Hopefully, I'll see you there!

[To Post a Comment]

Snake Plissken LIVES!

Charlotte Over Atlanta

300: Sin City Style

Bruce Lee LIVES

Heroes Over Wizards

A Really Creepy Moment

Mariah's Fake Abs - You Make the Call

Niles & Jones Create a Giant Monster

More Body Bags Coming Our Way

Michael Golden Art Day

Transporter 2 Gearing Up

Heroes Con Sketches Posted

Diamond Dave an Obvious Choice

Frank Miller Staying Busy

Chud.com Put Me on Tilt

Mariah and the Painted-On Abs

Back from the